Notes from the last meeting... Sue Haywood joined over a dozen members and discussed national AMBUCS information as well as some historical AmTryke stories. While there was a lot of information provided by Sue, she was also a very good listener, as evidenced by the Zoom pic below. She suggested we record tryke giveaways to put on YouTube to show people what we do. She added that we should record asking the parents what they can't do before the tryke. After a few weeks, go back and record the kids again. She gave several examples of children building up muscles and stability that increased their abilities. The meeting ended early when Shawn said he was running low on minutes on his cell phone plan and the slightly older members on the Zoom call asked Shawn what type of plan has restrictions on minutes. In a robotic voice, Shawn replied "You have exceeded your minutes" and hung up.
